

The Century Project – Update

- What: Two Optional Team Member Update Meetings
When February 16th from 8 – 9 am at SkyLine, or & Where: February 16th from 3 – 4 pm at Taylor Building (Pike Place Training Room)
Who: Active Team Members are invited
Why: CEO Ron Severt will provide an update on the proposed renovations

We know there are a lot of questions out there. We will most likely be in the feasibility stage through May, so we might not have all the answers until late spring. However our commitment is to communicate updates and milestones as they move from feasibility to reality. These voluntary Team Member drop-in meetings will be one of the many communication forums you can attend to hear updates and ask questions.

Project Update –

- We are in building code review with the City.
 - We submitted building permits to the City in November and expect the process to take until at least May to complete.
 - This is an extensive back-and-forth process between the City and the architects to understand the details of our planned renovation.
- We are working to complete the feasibility phase by May.
 - We are getting quotes from various contractors and sub-contractors on a few potential remodel scenarios.
 - We are also testing materials – like samples of glass – and systems as part of feasibility.
 - We are also working on ways to stay open as much as possible during construction.
- We are working with a top restaurant designer.
 - We are excited to start working on new design concepts with a world renown restaurant designer Adam Tihany.

These meetings are intended to provide you an update on the process and answer any questions you might have.
